Summary of reasons for decision:

The publication is a sexually explicit computer moving image file, which includes shots of a woman ejaculating, amongst other sexual activity. Although the potential exists for interpreting the substance as urine, it is explicitly and exclusively presented as ejaculate by the narrative, performance, and dialogue. Urination or urine are not mentioned, and none of the depicted activity presents as urination. The publication therefore does not promote or support, nor tend to promote or support, the use of urine in association with sexual conduct.

Considerations under s3 of the Films, Videos, and Publications Classification Act 1993 have been weighed against the right to freedom of expression as set out in s14 of the New Zealand Bill of Rights Act 1990. Given the video file's treatment of matters of sex, it is likely to be injurious to the public good unless restricted to an audience of adults. This restriction is reasonable, justified and in accordance with the law. This limitation on the publication's availability is the minimum restriction that can be applied in order to prevent likely injury to the public good.
